

Name: Age:

GANDEY'S CIRCUS

In 1768, Philip Astley from Newcastle-under-Lyme established the first circus in Britain. He would perform tricks with horses in a ring measured 13 metres (42) which is the standard ring size still used today. He later included trapeze artists, acrobats and clowns in his shows.

Join up the dots below to create a horse, then add features and accessories.

